

From: O'Neil, David LCS:EX
Sent: September 16, 2005 12:57 PM
To: Munroe, Warren LCS:EX
Subject: Labour Relations course

Importance: High

Hi Warren,

I took a look at the subjects covered under the Labour Relations course you signed up for. As you said in our discussions, your object for taking the course was about building team building and interaction skills, this course doesn't really address any of that. the course description says that it's oriented towards "Supervisors, Managers and any Human Resource consultants and technicians NEW to their position", and the 'Learning Objectives' are

"Upon completion of this course, you will know how to:

- Interpret and administer the BCGEU Master Agreement in an effective manner
- Apply government's relevant legislation, policies and procedures to LR issues
- Conduct grievance meetings with employees and union representatives
- Investigate grievance issues and document appropriately

I'll have to say no on taking the course, as it's not really relevant to what you were aiming for. Sorry about that.

Thanks
Dave

David O'Neil, Manager
Population Section, BC Stats
Ministry of Labour and Citizen's Services

email: Dave.ONeil@gov.bc.ca tel: 250-387-0335 fax: 250-387-0329
www.bcstats.gov.bc.ca